THIS PART IS WAY EASIER

A white seabird, likely a gull or tern, is captured in mid-flight from a low-angle perspective. The bird's wings are fully extended, showing dark feathers at the tips. Its body is white, and it has a dark patch around its eye. The background is a clear, bright blue sky.

NEW MODEL IN ACTION

NEW MODEL: REQUIREMENTS FIRST

Our website is awful. We need a new website.

Lets talk about what you need and why.

REQUIREMENTS GATHERING

What do you need and why?

Developers call this the XY problem

Librarians call it the reference interview

Our website is awful. We need a new website.

EDUCATING THE CLIENT

BY ASKING THE RIGHT QUESTIONS

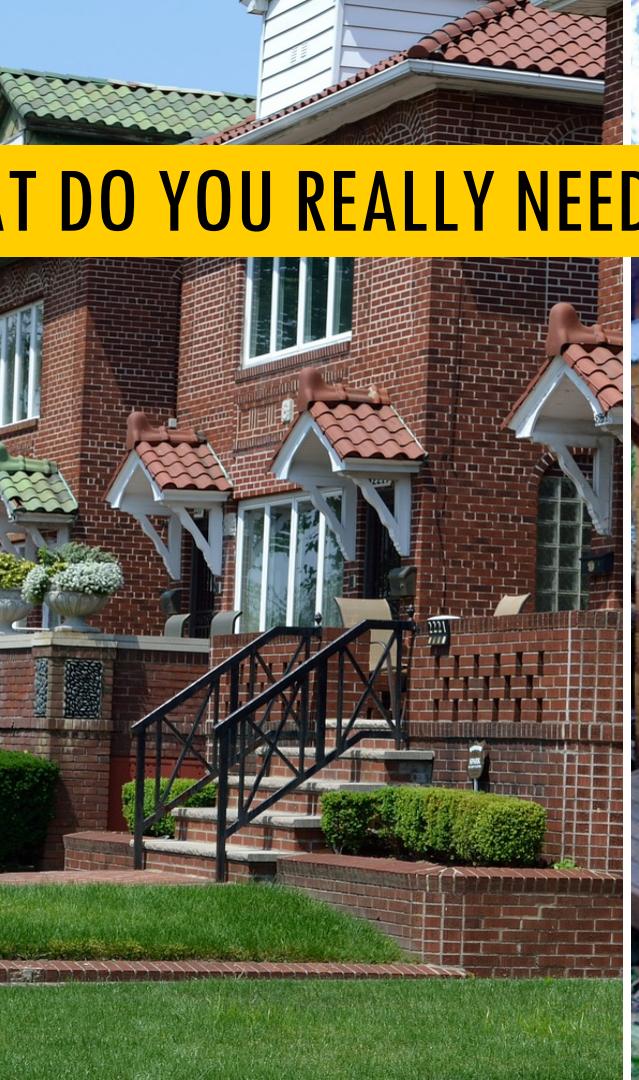

- ◉ Why do you need a new website?
- ◉ Is it the design is outdated?
- ◉ Is the navigation confusing?
- ◉ Is the content incorrect?
- ◉ Do the labels make sense?
- ◉ All the above?

CONTENT IS AT THE CORE

- What are you trying to communicate?
- Who is your core audience?
- Why are they coming to your site now?
- Why should they come to your site?
- What is the status of your content?

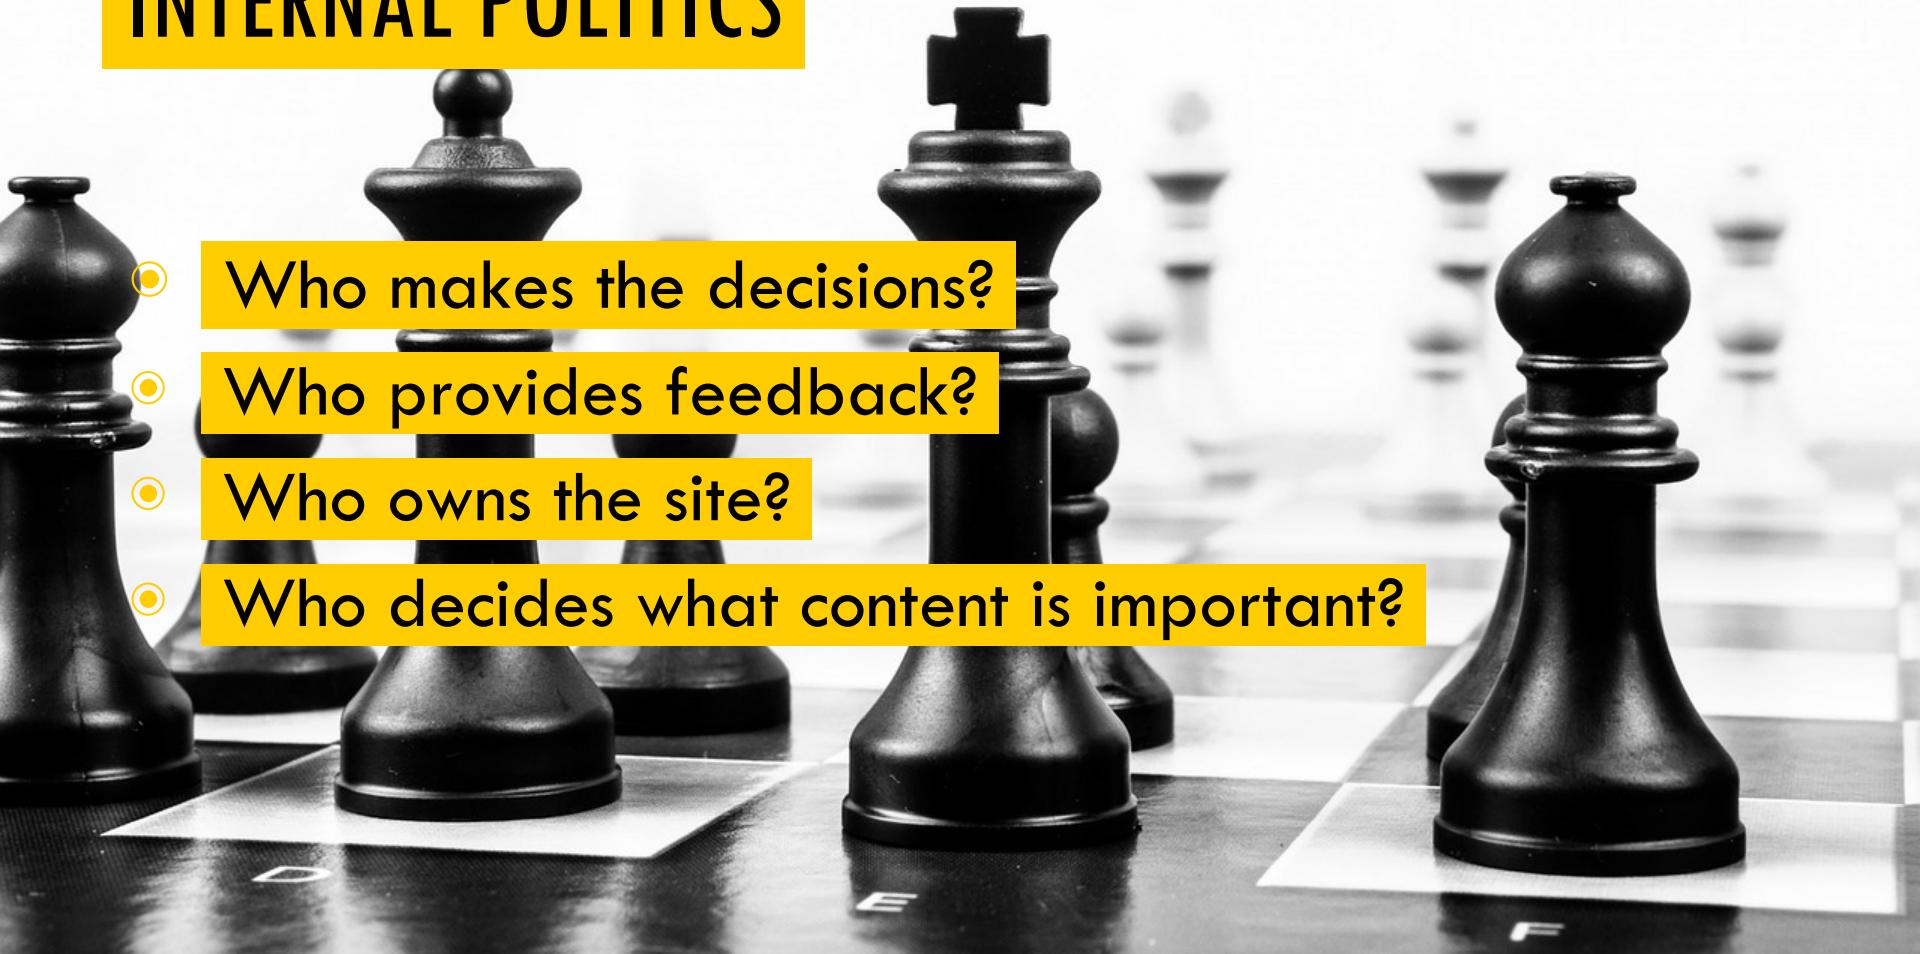

WHAT DO YOU REALLY NEED?

INTERNAL POLITICS

- Who makes the decisions?
- Who provides feedback?
- Who owns the site?
- Who decides what content is important?

WEBSITES CAN'T WORK MIRACLES.

A website can't solve bad service design.
It just exposes it.

The wireframe depicts a website layout for 'CAROLINA PLANNING' with the tagline 'PLAN HERE. GO ANYWHERE'. At the top right are social media links for Facebook, Twitter, and LinkedIn, along with a 'GIVE' button. A search bar is located in the top right corner. The main navigation menu includes links for ACADEMICS, ADMISSIONS, STUDENT LIFE, CAREERS, ALUMNI, and PEOPLE. Below the navigation is a placeholder for a 'HERO IMAGE OR SLIDER'. Underneath this are three rectangular boxes labeled 'MASTERS PROGRAM', 'DOCTORAL PROGRAM', and 'UNDERGRADUATE MINOR'. A dashed horizontal line separates these from a section titled 'FEATURED (post tagged as featured)', which contains four placeholder cards. Another dashed line separates this from an 'EVENTS' section, which lists five events with columns for DATE and EVENT NAME. A 'VIEW ALL' button is at the bottom of the events list. At the very bottom, there's a 'CONTACT INFO' section.

IT'S OKAY TO SAY "NO"

IT'S ALL A BALANCING ACT
